Today we are looking at this set of Typewriter Notes Stationery which has been curated and designed by Janine Vangool of Uppercase Magazine. The set is published by Chronicle Books.

In my blog post Just my type ! from 2015 it noted the arrival of receiving her new book "The Typewriter".

If you are not familiar with the Uppercase Magazine it is a "quarterly print magazine for the creative and curious".

You will love the symphony of colors that greet you at her site, magazines, and especially her book "The Typewriter" as mentioned in the opening to today's blog post.

Here is an image of the 20 different cards in the set. It showcases photographs by Uppercase magazine readers.

Although on the site it shows the item as Sold Out I was able to find it at several locations online, including over at the publisher's website Chronicle Books.

If you are one of my penpals you may find yourself receiving a future letter from me with one of these note cards from the Typewriter Notes Stationery set! Have fun exploring her site!

Today is my #895 daily blog post since launching AnchoredScraps.com on February 26, 2015 – meaning five more days! Thank you for continuing to be on the journey with me as we nudge, prod, encourage, and delight in old-style correspondence letter writing! See you tomorrow as we continue the quest!

Anchors Aweigh,

Helen
